Welcome to Merrimack Repertory Theatre’s 40th Anniversary Season. We would not be here without you—our donors, subscribers, volunteers, trustees, staff, business supporters, and audience members. You are the reason for our longevity and our success. Thank you!

The regional theatre movement, which established theatres like MRT all over the country, is nearly 60 years old. Over the years, we have seen regional theatres close as they struggled to find enough support for their artistic work. We feel fortunate to live in a community that values the presence of a professional theatre, especially a theatre dedicated to new works. We will be celebrating all season with ticket specials (two tickets for $40 at every performance), special guests for our pre-show speeches, “throwback” photos on our social media pages, interviews with key people from our history, and a big, glamorous gala at the end of the season.

In order to continue for another 40 years, we need your help. The average production budget per show this season is $112,000. Much of that is determined by our union agreements and the going rates for professional artists. Ticket sales and subscriptions only cover 60% of our production expenses. In every department, we find creative ways to save money each year. Some of our staff members do two jobs; volunteers take on various responsibilities throughout the building; and our local businesses donate food, dry cleaning, and lodging. However, we still need the support of subscribers, ticket buyers, business supporters, and donors like you to keep us on solid financial footing.

We need you to support this organization that brings yours stories to life. From our mainstage productions to our training programs to our student matinees to our audience discussions, we are investing in our community. We hope you will invest in MRT by making a gift or increasing your donation today. Your gift translates to a more vibrant regional economy and directly supports the work you see on stage today.

FROM SEAN DANIELS, ARTISTIC DIRECTOR

Welcome to MRT’s 40th Anniversary Season.

It is a true testament to this community that for 40 years MRT has been bringing world class theatre to this area. It’s also a celebration of the countless people who, over four decades, made sacrifices to keep the doors open—subscribers, donors, people who decided to bring a new couple with them to introduce them to the theatre—four decades of community support has made this into a local treasure and a nationally respected and envied institution.

Also, like most people around 40, MRT is really now coming into its own—with shows that premiered here starting to appear in other cities (several going Off-Broadway), and other productions winning local awards like: Best Director, Best Production and Best Actor.

It’s a great time to be a part of MRT and to continue the legacy that has been started for us by so many countless supporters.

It’s with this that we dive into Karen Zacarías’ show that has been sweeping the nation, helmed by the nationally recognized Giovanni Sardelli. A deeply smart and subversive take on class, and who we choose to let into our community. Karen is one of the hottest playwrights in the country right now with plays at Oregon Shakes, Denver Center and us—we’re thrilled that such a prolific and successful playwright considers this one of her homes.

Thank you for your support—whether you are new or this is your 40th year attending. We can’t wait to create this season with you.

You tackle a lot of dark issues with outright hilarity. Why is humor an important part of your storytelling?

I think humor can be “disarming”. Especially if it’s not mean…and it brings light to personal foibles. If you laugh, you usually have to uncross your arms…and open up…and that allows other ideas and perspectives to come in. What people have told me about Native Gardens is that even though you side with different sides of the fence in different scenes, the person you end up judging is yourself.

Did a specific incident prompt you to write Native Gardens?

I was at a dinner party looking for an idea for a play, and someone suggested I write about the fight they were having with a neighbor. Then someone else recounted a neighbor story and so on. I was struck by how common, how primal, and poetic, and somewhat absurd all these epic battles can be and decided to explore the thorny issues of feuds through a biting comedic play.

What has most shaped your perspective?

Being born in Mexico has shaped my perspective. Moving from Mexico to Boston when I was 10 shaped my perspective. Being an immigrant with immigrant parents shaped my perspective, and writing and art is the way I reconciled the bridges…and walls that I’ve encountered in my path. Art is a map for navigating the world, and a tool for making sense of the insensible.

What does Native Gardens mean to you personally?

I think there are over 12 productions of Native Gardens scheduled for this next year. I am so grateful that a play written by a Latinx artist, giving voice to characters we don’t often see on stage, is getting to interact with so many people from across the country. It means to me that plays like this are part of the American canon, and our stories are part of the mainstage of the American story.

Are you a gardener yourself?

No. But I learned a lot about gardening researching this play. Who would have known that plants could be so political?!!

Current projects include a new stage adaptation of The Age of Innocence by Edith Wharton for the Oregon Shakespeare Festival, the libretto for the Washington Ballet’s The Legend of Sleepy Hollow, and a Brazilian-themed musical version of the Oliver Twist story. She resides in D.C. with her husband and three children.

MERRIMACK REPERTORY THEATRE (MRT) celebrates 40 years this season as the Merrimack Valley’s professional theatre. With a steadfast commitment to contemporary voices and new plays, MRT produces seven works, including several world premieres, each season. Under the leadership of Artistic Director Sean Daniels and Executive Director Bonnie J. Butkas, MRT strives to fulfill its mission “to share theatrical stories of human understanding that reflect and engage our community.” The company guarantees that shows are accessible to audiences of all incomes; partners with businesses and non-profit groups to fully engage the community; and contributes to the economic vitality of Lowell by attracting diverse audiences from throughout the region.
In 1978 Lowell resident Barbara Abrahamian befriended director Mark Kaufman and actor John Briggs at a summer stock theatre in Salem, New Hampshire. She convinced the young men to return with her to Lowell to start a theatre company. The three formed the “Committee for Legitimate Theatre in Lowell,” and they quickly inspired other residents to jump on their bandwagon.

John Duff, the first president of UMass Lowell, offered the trio Mahoney Hall for a home, and Nancy L. Donahue agreed to form a fundraising board and serve as its president. Hundreds of volunteers sold more than 1,700 subscriptions and raised $41,000. Kaufman and Briggs became the company’s first Producing Artistic Directors, with Abrahamian serving as the first Director of Audience Development.

They named their new venture Merrimack Regional Theatre, and the company officially opened on October 23, 1979, with a production of The Passion of Dracula by Bob Hall and David Richmond.

In 1982 Dan Schay took over as the new Artistic Director. MRT relocated to Liberty Hall in the fall of 1983 and changed its name to Merrimack Repertory Theatre. Schay produced MRT’s first world premiere, Jack Neary’s First Night, in 1987. He also produced a beloved production of Charles Dickens’ A Christmas Carol that played for 11 consecutive seasons.

The national spotlight found MRT when Artistic Director David Kent (1990-2001) produced The Lowell Trilogy by playwright Jon Lipsky from 1992-94. The series included Lipsky’s original play Living in Exile, plus his adaptations of Lowell native Jack Kerouac’s Maggie Cassidy (Maggie’s Rift) and Haing S. Ngor’s Cambodian Odyssey (The Survivor: A Cambodian Odyssey). The tenure of Artistic Director Charles Towers (2001-2014) brought a rare staged reading of Kerouac’s only play, Beat Generation; and MRT’s first Off-Broadway transfer, Bob Clyman’s Secret Order.

In 2012 the company underwent a $750,000 renovation. The lobby was refurbished, and an accessible modern box office was completed, closing the decades-old basement ticket booth. The theatre reopened as the Sage Bank Lobby and the Enterprise Bank Box Office in the Nancy L. Donahue Theatre.

Current Artistic Director Sean Daniels joined MRT in 2015 with a new vision for the company — the full-time production of contemporary voices and new plays. Recent acclaimed productions include his own autobiographical play, The White Chip; I and You, Silent Sky by Lauren Gunderson, the most produced playwright in America; Women in Jeopardy! by Wendy MacLeod (directed by Daniels); and The Lion, singer-songwriter Benjamin Scheuer’s award-winning musical memoir (also directed by Daniels), which launched its national tour from MRT in August 2015, following critically acclaimed runs in New York and London. Daniels also introduced his innovative audience immersion program, The Cohort Club, which offers the community unprecedented access to the creative process, and he formed The Patriot Program, a network of more than 60 artists, which is revolutionary in its approach to artistic associate programs.

MRT’s budget has grown from $200,000 in 1979 to $2.9 million today, and the theatre has provided entertainment, education, and an artistic home to more than two million Merrimack Valley residents over the last 40 years.

1. MRT’s first production, The Passion of Dracula, featured Matt Williams, best known now as the creator/producer of the classic sitcoms “Home Improvement” and the original “Roseanne,” and Judith Townsend.

THE LIVING LEGACY SOCIETY

Merrimack Repertory Theatre’s Living Legacy Society was established to provide a lasting legacy for donors who believe in the mission of MRT.

The Living Legacy Society helps you combine financial goals with charitable giving. When you support MRT with a planned gift to the Living Legacy Society, you can:

• Secure steady payments throughout your lifetime and increase available income
• Reduce income, estate, and capital gains taxes
• Ensure support of a loved one after your lifetime
• Build lasting support for the greater Merrimack Valley’s only professional theatre

Living Legacy Society gifts may be made through a bequest, a gift of appreciated securities or assets, beneficiary designation of retirement plans or life insurance, a charitable remainder trust, or a gift of property.

Your support will ensure that MRT continues its vital role in arts, education, and community building for years to come.

If you have already made MRT part of your estate plans, we invite you to join the Living Legacy Society. Thank you.

For more information, please contact:
Bonnie J. Butkas, Executive Director at 978-654-7558 or bonnie.butkas@mrt.org.

STAGESOURCE ‘STANDING O’ FOR WOMEN

The winning plays are Native Gardens, The Heath, Cry It Out, and Miss Bennet: Christmas at Pemberley. StageSource provides leadership and services to advance the art of theatre in the Greater Boston and New England region.

JEANNE D’ARC SUPPORTS STUDENT MATINEES

Jeanne D’Arc has graciously agreed to sponsor the publication of all MRT PlayGuides this season. The PlayGuide is an in-depth study guide for the thousands of Merrimack Valley youth who attend student matinees here each year. Jeanne D’Arc’s support will allow each student to receive their own printed copy for the first time in years.

ZABEL IN EXILE

In August MRT presented a reading of the world premiere of Zabel in Exile by R.N. Sandberg, an historical play about the extraordinary life of Armenia writer, political activist, and feminist Zabel Yessayan. More 150 attended the reading, which was directed by 2017/18 MRT Resident Director Megan Sandberg-Zakian, who won the IRNE Award for Best Director for our production of The Royale. The play was a commission by Judith Saryan.

YOUNG COMPANY SOARS

The 14 teenagers in the MRT Young Company Class of 2018 gave a soul-stirring performance in August to end their month-long summer workshop. Under the guidance of Program Director Will Rogers and Associate Director Richard Liccardo, this season of the Young Company was generously supported by the attendees of our Annual Gala and Auction, the Aubert J. Fay Charitable Trust, Trustees of the Ayer Home, and the United Way of Massachusetts Bay and Merrimack Valley.

MURDER FOR TWO

BOOK & MUSIC BY Joe Kinosian
BOOK & LYRICS BY Kellen Blair
DIRECTED BY JC Clementz
ONE MURDER, TWO ACTORS, SIX SUSPECTS, AND ONE PIANO!

Who killed the great American novelist Arthur Whitney at his own surprise party? In this zany, whodunit, comedy musical, every guest has a motive. Was it the prima ballerina, the widow, the niece, the psychiatrist—or even the detective? Two actors play 13 roles—and the piano—in this entertaining homage to old-fashioned murder mysteries. The play stars co-writer Joe Kinosian, in the role he originated Off-Broadway.
